

ANTI-RACIST ORGANIZING IN NH

WHEN

March 14
8 am – 1 pm

WHERE

NHTI Grappone Hall
31 College Drive, Concord, NH 03301

After a successful Anti-Racist Organizing in the Suburbs (AROS) last fall in Maine, Community Change, Inc. (CCI), NHTI, and Concord Showing Up for Racial Justice (SURJ) are creating a networking space to continue conversations and reconnect around the anti-racist work happening in New Hampshire.

Whether you are working on justice issues related to education, healthcare, environment, economics, criminalization or immigration, racial justice is a common thread through all of our work. Networking Sessions will be organized by region, topics and groups. Participants will leave with stronger connections to others doing the work in our state, a clearer understanding of how folks are working and some strategies in educating our communities in meaningful ways.

Coffee and light breakfast items will be available. Participants are encouraged to bring materials to share, notices of upcoming events and information on volunteer opportunities.
